“The world is watching Connecticut and I’m proud to say that our Legislature delivered on a bi-partisan package of measures that will keep our schools safer, addresses mental health issues and creates comprehensive gun laws that address gun trafficking, gun safety, assault weapons and large capacity magazines. We must do everything we can to protect our residents, especially our children; I believe that these new measures will go a long way in helping to curb the gun violence we see in our cities and preventing tragedies like we saw in Sandy Hook from ever happening again. Now, I hope that leadership in Washington can follow Connecticut’s lead.”
